What pleasant hours are passed in the cottages, the chateaux, the old dwellings and the modern mansions of Newport, are indefibly written in memory by those who have made there the homes that look out upon streets filled, in the summer time, with the picest people of all the land, and in winter hear the ever glorious music of the sea, reciting in its surf story, to the land what tidings of the distant storm come in with every wind—the far off storm it is, its fringed edge, its picture—all that is shown to the safe citizen. Even the old ride to Newport is an interesting one. This is the eige of the harbor, where the wharves are arranged as the merchants of the day of Newport's commerce planned—rather in a crowd—as if the abid half of wind water for a memorable place his level or measure any generosity of breadth to the high way. In a memorable visit thither of the Yacht Squadron, the little harbor was brilliant with all the colors of the fleet, and the salutes to the sunsei reminded the oid houses of the sounds of D'Estatio's squadron, or any other mariner of the war times. The sail boats glide with unceasing beauty of movement. Some square rigging is the evidence that the day of enterprise is not all over. The old sloop wayage for Briatol is, or was, a curiosity of the past. There is just enough of the Pasc as one goes ashore to win to a higher appreciation of the modern dress that Fashion has given the Town, like a Duchess of George the Third's time in the last fashion. SCIENTIFIC ASSOCIATION.

Next week, this city is to be honored with a menting of men worthy of as much expect, if not more, than the members of affiliody which has holden its sessions here. This meeting is the fourteenth annual session of the Scientific Association, comprising within its list of me . hers, the names of Aggasiz, Bache, Henr & liman, Gould, Withheack, Pierce, Guizot, Horsford, Lover ing, and Caswell, of our own Brown Unitrialty. It will be a great decideratum, ra spe these men, and a still greater, to hear them speak, for their fame is "gone entiate all the world."

At the last meeting of the General As embly, that body placed the State House at the disposal of the Association for the pitiposes of sessions; but if the number of prople are present which has usually been present, or which is expected, we fear that they will be straightened for room. We lean through the courtesy of Hou, John Ha Bartlett, Secretary of State, that the adden of the Legislature has been communicipated to the Association by that o∏icar.

Mayor Crauston also informs us, that a Chairman of the Committee appointed by the City Council to not jointly with the local committee of the Association, he has been for some time in communication with Prof. Lovering of Cambridge, Permanent Secretary. As it will fall to the lot of Mayor Cranston to extend to the body a welcome to our City, we have no doubt it will be heartily and fittingly done.

The officers of the Association, we learn through the courtesy of Prof. Lavering of Cambridge, are as follows:

pr. Lee of Philadelphia, President. Dr. B. A. Gould, Jr., Combridge, Vice President. Prof. Joseph Lovering, Cambridge, Pelmanent Secretury. Dr. Joseph Leconte Columbin, S. C. General Secretary.

The meeting, as nearly as we can accertain, will be organized on Wednesday. The proper officer will call the Association to order, when, if necessary, any official which is followed by the welcoming address on the part of the local authorities, and a reply com the presiding officer .-Some other unimportant proceedings will complete the organization.

The latest "proceedings" of which we are able to make use, contain the Constitution of the Association. Rule caven of this document, divides the whole body into " two sections," and as many cub-sections as may be necessary for the scientific business; the manner of division to be determined by the standing committee, and these "sections" may hold sessions simultaneously.

Rule twenty-one states-" the amount of the subscription, at each meeting, of each member of the Association, shall be two dollars, and one dellar in addition shall entitle him to a copy of the proceedings of the annual meeting."

· No person shall be considered a memher until the subscription for the meeting at which he is elected has been paid.

Permanent Resolution number seven provides that, " the Sectional Committees shall meet not later than nine A.M., daily to arrange the programmes of their respective Sections, including all sub-sections, for the following day." Resolution eight, -" During the meetings of the Association the Standing Committee shall meet daily, ndays excepted, at 9 A. M., and the Sections shall be called to order at 10 A. 11. The Standing Committee shall also meet on the evening preceding, the first ascembling of the Association at each anand meeting, to arrange for the business of the first day, and on this occasion three shall form a quotum."

We have made arrangements by which no hops to give our readers further information before the meeting, in order that they may be prepared to fully enjoy the rich intelectual feast which will be offered at these sersions; and we advise, in the fromeast in sins, that arrangements on the part of our citizens be made, so as to deto as much time as passible to the readings and discussions which will delly be heard, and the like of which may never be
